WESTMINSTER

After the clear Sunday, the rain descended and the winds making disagreeable going. Last Sunday, at Westminster Governor Lake's fine Thanksgiving proclamation was read.
 The subject for Wednesday evening, Nov. 24, at the home altars of prayer, is: "The Value and the Danger of Wealth." Scripture passage, St. Matt. 6: 19-24.
 Westminster Hill rejoices that the teacher, Miss Marjorie Russell, of Brooklyn, who resigned last October, but continued to teach here, will continue to teach here, at least until Christmas.
 Walter Margotte of Providence was a visitor at Longview Sunday.
 Miss Ruth Rosenzweig, who went to

New York after competing for the grand prize at the state annual convention of the W. O. T. U. at Stamford, where she came within one-tenth of winning, returned last week, bringing with her the little daughter and son of her sister, Mrs. Vera Lee, who are to spend the winter with their grandmother, Mrs. Simon Rosenzweig, and attend school.

Mr. and Mrs. Mann Page of New York and Westminster and Dorothy Merrill, daughter of Mrs. Page, are here at Resthaven, for the Thanksgiving and week end.

Wednesday afternoon Westminster Hill school presented a very pleasing program of recitations, songs and original compositions under the direction of their teacher, Miss Russell. A number of parents and friends were present.

Family gatherings and reunions were the rule for Thanksgiving.

Schools having teachers closed Wednesday afternoon for the Thanksgiving holiday, continuing until Monday.

The Thanksgiving Community service of the Protestant churches of the city, held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock at the First Congregational church house, was well attended in spite of weather conditions and handicaps for travel.

The meeting was opened by Rev. Harry S. McCready, pastor of the First Congregational church, who read the Thanksgiving proclamation of Gov. Everett J. Lake. The scripture lesson was read by Rev. Arthur D. Carpenter, pastor of the First Baptist church, and prayer was offered by Rev. Walter F. Borchert, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

The morning sermon was delivered by Rev. John Pearson, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, his topic being "A Great Nation." He said in substance:

We know in our hearts what America means. The problem is to teach it to the people; to share with them an understanding and an appreciation of it. We wish to build a nation fit to serve; a nation that does not find its end in its own aggrandizement, however great that may be; a nation that does not see its purpose complete in material wealth; but that can only achieve its aim by carrying a message to mankind of what has been found possible on this continent. Saxon and Celt, Teuton and Slav, Latin and Hun, are all here not as aliens but as citizens; not as immigrants but as members of a body politic which is new in conception in human history, as it is new in its own thought of its high purpose. Can America integrate itself at this crisis; can it show that here is a nation which, out of various and varied elements, can be brought into a genuine unity by devotion to high principle and by moral purpose before the face of all mankind? Can we make an America that shall glow on the corridors of time with a proud place on the pages of history? Can we, ready for a dash like the face of all mankind? Can we make an America that shall glow on the corridors of time with a proud place on the pages of history? Can we, ready for a dash like the face of all mankind? Can we make an America that shall glow on the corridors of time with a proud place on the pages of history? Can we, ready for a dash like the face of all mankind?

Though we boast of our institutions, we are living in a very riotous materialism where the church and Christian's obligation are forgotten in a mad rush for amusement and idle gossip of the hour. The old fabric which talked of souls sown with the seeds of dragons, spoke like reality in a land which ought to be the safest and happiest on earth. Legions of unseen troubles are hovering around us, ready for a dash like the face of all mankind? Can we make an America that shall glow on the corridors of time with a proud place on the pages of history? Can we, ready for a dash like the face of all mankind?

Now here is the situation of peril facing this nation. Our fathers paid for civil liberty and equal rights with their blood and treasure, and we are being engulfed with greed, and forgetting the common brotherhood of mutual helpfulness. Many of our boasted Americans are poor in patriotism, weak character, and rich only in dollars and cents. That, mark you, is exactly the condition upon which autocrats and dictators feed, and shall I say that our American life is full of them?

It is the beginning of slavery not to realize that you are being enslaved. Many a man is a slave in his own soul because he has never gained the mastery over himself. Many a good man is a slave because he is controlled by selfish, unfair conditions. It is a crime before God and history to receive a blood-stained legacy from our fathers and hand it down reduced in quantity and tarnished in quality to generations yet unborn. One-half of the money spent on material reforms and judicial administration if spent on an aggressive and positive evangelism would save the nation and her sacred institutions.

Thoughtful people are learning today as never before that the very height of folly is for them to try to get along without God. That the man who takes no stock in religion and contributes nothing for its support is a traitor to his country and is out of touch with the better social and political influences of his age. To cut loose from the church is to cut loose from the greatest social factor of human blessedness under the sun.

Some 60 years ago Abraham Lincoln in his debate with Senator Douglas made use of this scriptural saying that "a house divided against itself cannot stand"; and he added, I do not expect the house will fall, but I do expect the house will cease to be divided. We do expect that our America will come to the full consciousness of its purpose; that the serene courage of Washington, the constructive genius of Hamilton, the keen human insight and sympathy of Jefferson, the patient wisdom of Lincoln, will not have been in vain in teaching us what our country is and may become.

Shall we catch sight of something higher than selfishness, higher than material gain, higher than the triumph of brute force which alone can lead a nation up to those high places the beacon of history, and from which influence descends in a mighty torrent to refresh, to vivify, and inspire all mankind? This great nation demands greater men. The man of action must support the man of thought. And in the world's history, behind the philosopher and the statesman, stands the church, the inspiration of God.

We talk and think much about democracy, but democracy in itself is no more safe than monarchy. It is man that is sacred; man made in the image of his Creator. I wish I could force that truth into the brain of every man, woman and child, for in it and from it comes only conception of true greatness and good government. We cannot serve God and man by proxy.

What this nation needs is not glorification but salvation. What our own town needs today is applied personality in willing and noble service on the altars of patriotism and religion. It is well for us to remember that by the constant, unflinching efforts of Washington's soldiers there were established not only our own freedom but the freedom of France and the democratic sovereignty of Great Britain. And I think sometimes English liberty is American independence.

For democracy America stands; signally before the nations, we are to chasten, uplift, defend that idea, wide as the earth and deep as the sea. Let us set our house in order, as we cannot evade the duty and we dare not sell the blessing. To retreat, to retreat, will be to relinquish the glorious opportunity of which this great nation is a trustee, not to exploit a continent, but to uplift a world. Is it not enough to make our cheeks flush with honest pride when we remember God and liberty is our birthright? Christ is our Leader, as we hear the shout of hundreds of millions shaking the very earth in honor of the guns of Lexington. In His name, Son of Man and Son of God, the Great Emancipator has power to execute judgment upon all oppression. May He lead and save our country and the world by the light divine.

There is no way in which a man can do so much for his country as being known as a consistent Christian. Every true patriot should be a follower of Christ. Let us ask one thing of our country? By playing moral and religious forces mightily. By being men true to ourselves, true to our God, and then we shall be true to our country.

And so shall the heaven of Christ's doctrine of human brotherhood tend more and more toward its longed-for consummation. The realization of the divine ideal in the affairs of men; when it may be said not only that an injury to one is to be the concern of all but that the good of all is the constant concern of everyone.

Miss Antoinette Dion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antoine Dion of High street, and Wilfred Gagnon were united in marriage Thursday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's church, by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Papillon, who also celebrated the nuptial high mass. His assistants were Rev. Hermidas Bobo and Rev. James J. Tyler. Miss Violet Dion of Tataville was bridesmaid and Clarence Marrotte was best man. The bride was attractively gowned in blue panne velvet with hat to match. Her maid wore a brown suit with hat to match.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and wedding luncheon served to about fifty guests among whom were relatives from out of town, and prominent local people. Mr. and Mrs. Gagnon left during the afternoon on their honeymoon which will be spent in New York and Buffalo, and on their return they will reside in this city where Mr. Gagnon is employed as a draftsman.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's school and attended Windham High school. For the past three years she has been employed in a local insurance office.

Frederick Enderud, a student at Tufts Medical College, is spending the week-end with his mother on Park street.

Maxwell and Donald Connolly of Boston College are spending the week-end with their father, Thomas Connolly.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shea of Providence are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Michael Moriarty.

The town hall Thursday afternoon was the scene of a four-hour Thanksgiving dance, held under the auspices of the W. B. A. of the Macabees. Dancing began at 3 o'clock, music being furnished by an eight-piece orchestra. During an intermission the W. B. A. of the Macabees Guard team gave a fine exhibition of military drill, under the leadership of Guard Captain Mrs. Florence Woodworth. Ice cream and cocktails were served during the dance. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Mary Mathien, chairman; Mrs. Mary Brooks, Mrs. Ida Grady and Mrs. Rosa Calais.

Travel both on foot and by vehicle was extremely dangerous Thanksgiving day, but in spite of the heavy traffic no accidents were reported to the police.
